GEARSTAR
PERFORMANCE TRANSMISSIONS

Welcome to Gearstar

Worlds best transmissions with the best warranty and the FEWEST returns!

Handmade with loving (and power-hungry) hands.

You've put a lot of love into your ride. It's not just a hobby, this thing is your baby. We know how you feel, and Gearstar takes the same level of care with your high performance transmission as you have with the rest of your car or truck, which is one reason that over 50% of our business comes from referrals and repeat customers. Each Gearstar high performance transmission is built to your exact specifications from start to finish by one of the industry's top expert technicians using only the best US made performance parts available.

About Gearstar Transmissions

Building a Better Transmission Starts With Building a Better Company. Gearstar's owner, Zack Farah, got his start over 25 years ago at Tristar International where they were manufacturing upwards of 100 transmissions each day and 300 converters. While bulk production was Tristar's bread and butter, the portion of the work on high performance transmissions drew Zack's interest

"The high performance or racing transmission customer is building his pride and joy," explains Zack. "The demands placed on these machines is a lot different from those placed on the family car." Realizing that at that time very few companies were offering anything other than off-the-shelf transmissions from the big manufacturers, Zack split from Tristar and started Gearstar with the goal of building the best high performance transmissions specialized to the individual needs of the most discerning customers.

HANDBUILT. ENGINEERED TO PERFORM.

To maintain consistency and quality during the building process, each transmission is handled by a single builder. We are also employee owned by people that have a true passion for what they do. Unlike many other transmission manufacturers that have been bought and sold three or four times over, Gearstar has only ever had one owner.

Zack sums up the attitude of Gearstar this way: "A transmission is what your wife has in her minivan. What we are building are horsepower transferring systems. Whether it is a Turbo 350 going behind a mild small block or a 4L85E built for a 528 Hemi, we approach each transmission as if is was going into our own personal car." It is that pride in craftsmanship that makes Gearstar the top choice for the most discerning drivers and enthusaists.

Customer Rides

Gearstar Customer Rides

Over the years, we have built high performance transmissions for some really great vehicles. We're as proud of our work as our customers are of their rides. If you are a Gearstar customer, please email us a photo and your feedback so we can include your ride in our gallery!

Transmissions

Every transmission handled by one technician from start to finish.

Each transmission is different and each customer has different needs. Allowing a single builder to craft your transmission means that he is intimately involved with both the transmission and the project. He has your requirements in mind at every point in the process.

We only build high performance transmissions.

That's right, we're not looking to rebuild your wife's minivan transmission. Hot Rods... Street Rods... those are our loves, so we'll leave the soccer practice and 9-to-5 commuter transmissions to the bulk manufacturers. We know how you feel when you are looking for someone you can trust with your baby, and we treat it like it is our own.
